

N. 1 2025

Labour Economics Letters

 sciendo

Editors-in-Chief

Emilio Congregado, University of Huelva, Spain
Raúl Ramos, University of Barcelona, Spain

Associate Editors

José María Arranz, University of Alcalá, Spain
Begoña Cueto, University of Oviedo, Spain
María de los Angeles Davia, University of Castilla-La Mancha, Spain
Concepción Román, University of Huelva, Spain
Herbert Schuetze, University of Victoria, Canada

Managing Editor

Concepción Román, University of Huelva, Spain

Editorial Advisory Board

Catalina Amuedo-Dorantes, University of California, USA
Manuel Arellano, CEMFI, Spain
Alina Botezat, Gheorghe Zane IESR, Romania
Lorenzo Cappellari, Sacro Cuore Milan, Italy
Jesús Crespo-Cuaresma, University of Vienna, Austria
Alessandra Faggian, Gran Sasso Science Institute, Italy
Frank Fossen, University of Nevada, USA
Ewa Galecka, Warsaw School of Economics, Poland
Lucía Gorjón, ISEAK Foundation & FEDEA, Spain
Luis Alberiko Gil-Alana, University of Navarra, Spain
Jolanda Hessels, Erasmus School of Economics, The Netherlands
Juan Francisco Jimeno, Bank of Spain, Spain
Tomi Kyyrä, VATT Institute for Economic Research, Finland
Pedro S. Martins, Nova Lisboa, Portugal
Massimiliano Mascherini, Eurofound, Ireland
Simon C. Parker, IVEY School, Canada
Andre van Stel, Trinity Business School, Ireland

Founding and Former Editors

Carlos García Serrano, University of Alcalá, Spain
Raquel Llorente, Autonomous University of Madrid, Spain
Joaquín Lorences, University of Oviedo, Spain
Miguel Angel Malo, University of Salamanca, Spain
Carlos Peraita, University of Valencia, Spain
Luis Toharia, University of Alcalá, Spain

Labour Economics Letters (formerly known as Revista de Economía Laboral) is the scientific journal of the Spanish Association of Labour Economics (Asociación Española de Economía del Trabajo, AEET). Our mission is to contribute significantly to the labor economics literature by facilitating the swift dissemination and easy accessibility of new findings, models, and methods across all areas of research in this field. We invite researchers from around the world to submit their original manuscripts, which must be written in English. The "letter" format is specifically designed for succinct communications that effectively convey important new research developments, whether they are empirical or theoretical contributions.

Labour Economics Letters invites authors to submit original manuscripts that contribute to the field of Labour Economics

Open Access, with no author fees

Article topics include, but are not limited to:

- Labour market dynamics
- Labour Policy evaluation
- Gender issues
- Automation
- Job search
- Migration
- Self-employment
- Education and skills
- Regional labour markets
- Labour statistics
- Inequality
- Programming issues
- New empirical approaches

Manuscript Length:

Submissions must not exceed 4,000 words, excluding references.

Submission Process:

Manuscripts should be submitted via the journal's online submission system. Specific details for submission can be found on the journal's website:

<https://sciendo.com/journal/LEL>

Key features of the "letter" format include:

Conciseness:

The length limitation allows readers to quickly assess their interest in the manuscripts and to grasp a substantial amount of relevant information efficiently.

Rapidity:

Our streamlined review process and prompt online publication guarantee a brief turnaround time for manuscripts.

Efficiency:

This format provides a quick method to stay updated on the latest findings in all fields of labour economics.

Supplementary Materials:

Authors are encouraged to submit supplementary materials, such as datasets, codes, and other relevant documentation, that facilitate the replicability of research findings. Providing these resources enhances transparency and allows for a thorough evaluation of the research results.

Ethical Standards:

All authors are expected to follow the ethical guidelines as outlined in the COPE (Committee on Publication Ethics) standards document.

We are committed to maintaining a streamlined review process, ensuring rapid publication, and providing an efficient platform for sharing relevant labour economics research

